The Best Online Trading Strategy.

There are plenty of many Forex ebooks online that teach new traders how to trade using the levels of Fibonacci, Elliot Wave, etc. Of course these ebooks are very good for any new Singapore trader, but the problem is that the writers of these books give 100% guarantee that if you do as they say, you will make profit.

Alas, the reality is not so easy and to justify himself in the loss, a trader begins hysterically recall all his steps in order to make sure there is a reason of his mistake and loss. Someone may has forgotten to take into account a very important indicator while placing a trading positions, another one has miscalculated the Fibonacci levels - and now such traders are making a sad conclusion: "No, the Forex market is not for me..." And of course everyone who thinks this way is not right, as Forex in Singapore has many systems and some of them are very easy like trading with reverse orders that can give you more than 500 pips every month.

The advantage of trading with a reverse orders technique is that you have a good chance to catch the market disregarding of its direction. I suggest many of you have faced a problem when you predict the direction of the market and open a trading position. But the market goes against you and your position is closed by stop loss order with a loss. And after that the direction changes and goes your way. How disappointed we are when it happens.

In order to reduce the chances of losses in such situation a technique of reverse orders was created. It is a very simple trading technique and every novice trader may use it. What you must do is when you open a position on Buy instead of stop-loss level after 25 points you place a position for Sell. The same you do for a position for Sell, you secure it with a position for Buy. The point is that you don't use a stop loss and if the market goes against you, you will still remain in the market.

By using this strategy you have a chance to correct your trading position any time disregarding of the market's change. The correction works the following way. If one of the orders got a profit of 10 points you should open another order in this direction. This technique will let you to diminish the losses. When you have three positions (two sell and one buy) where in total you are in profit you can start closing the profitable positions if you see that the market turns and takes another direction. Trading this way helps you open many positions and you can also use high leverage for it. This trading method may be uses on any platform and with all Singapore brokers.
